

A diagram of a basketball court showing the three-point arc and key for both teams. The court is divided into three sections by two vertical yellow lines. The central section contains a large yellow circle representing the three-point arc. The two side sections each contain a red dashed circle representing the key. The three-point arc is shown as a solid yellow line, and the key is shown as a solid red line. The diagram illustrates the relative positions of the three-point arc and the key for both teams.